Post-doctoral Researcher

Climate Change Science Institute

Computational Earth Sciences Group

Oak Ridge National Laboratory

Tianyu Jiang is a postdoctoral research associate in the Computational Earth Sciences Group and the Climate Change Science Institute of ORNL. His research interests include climate dynamics and predictability, climate variability, climate and weather extremes (e.g., atmospheric rivers; cold air outbreak), and stratosphere-troposphere interactions.

Jiang received his BS and MS in atmospheric science from Peking University, China in 2005 and 2008, respectively. He went on to obtain his PhD in atmospheric dynamics from Georgia Institute of Technology in 2013. He became familiar with ORNL through the Higher Education Research Experiences (HERE) summer program in 2012, during which he worked in the Computer Science and Mathematics Division.
